

Janine Finck-Boyle Joins AAPACN Executive Team

June 24, 2025 – The American Association of Post-Acute Care Nursing (AAPACN®) announced yesterday the addition of Janine Finck-Boyle as the Senior Vice President, Engagement, to the organization's executive leadership team.

In this expanded role, Finck-Boyle will lead efforts to support AAPACN members and stakeholders through highlighting the value of education and certification in driving quality improvement and resident outcomes.

A licensed nursing home administrator, Finck-Boyle brings more than two decades of leadership experience in the post-acute care sector, including executive roles focused on organizational strategy, operations, and regulatory advocacy. She joins AAPACN from LeadingAge, where she served as Vice President of Health Policy and Regulatory Affairs, guiding national policy initiatives and representing the interests of non-profit aging services providers.

“Janine is a recognized and respected leader among post-acute care providers. She brings a committed focus on quality and outcomes that is perfectly aligned with AAPACN’s goals. I am excited to work with her to support our members and to provide resources to address regulatory compliance and quality improvement,” noted AAPACN CEO Tracey Moorhead

“Joining AAPACN presents an exciting opportunity to deepen engagement with post-acute care nurses and elevate the critical role they play in delivering high-quality care,” said Janine Finck-Boyle. “By expanding access to education, certification, and meaningful resources, we can empower nurses to lead quality improvement efforts and create lasting impact for residents and the communities they serve.

CONNECT

KEY TAKEAWAYS

Janine Finck-Boyle joins the AAPACN executive leadership team as the Senior Vice President, Engagement, bringing more than two decades of leadership experience in the post-acute care sector.

Finck-Boyle will lead efforts to highlight the value of education and certification in driving quality improvement and resident outcomes.

AAPACN President and CEO, Tracey Moorhead, states that Finck-Boyle’s commitment to quality and outcomes aligns with AAPACN goals to provide resources to address regulatory compliance and quality improvement.

MEDIA GALLERY

Download photo

CONTACT

Carrie Ripes
720.673.9194
cripes@AAPACN.org

About AAPACN

The American Association of Post-Acute Care Nursing (AAPACN®) represents more than 20,000 post-acute care nurses and professionals working in more than 7,200 facilities. Dedicated to supporting PAC nurses and healthcare professionals in providing quality care, AAPACN offers members best-in-class education, certification, resources, and strong collaborative communities.